YJ's Snack Bar is nestled in a little storefront on the northeast corner of 18th & Wyandotte (128 West 18th St.) in the heart of the Crossroads Arts District. The interior is a small eclectic space. The scene expands exponentially in nice weather with the opportunity to spill out onto the sidewalk. YJ's serves its usual bohemian patrons and downtown business folks along with those that search it out for the adventure. I shared a recent Saturday morning with three women having coffee before yoga, two students and a young couple with an adorable son.

I stop in for a coffee, water or a soda during the week and enjoy the Mexican Breakfast on Saturday mornings. This unique, homemade meal consist of a plate of black beans, spicy chorizo, two fried eggs, pinco de gallo full of cilantro with a measure of avocado. Truly a medley of flavors. I like my Mexican Breakfast with hot sauce and YJ's has a diverse assortment. I savored Jamaican Crushed Pepper sauce on my most recent visit. It's a real treat...Check it out!

I'm a proponent of patronizing locally owned businesses. Supporting this establishment or one of the many other Kansas City owned and operated businesses, is a great way to boost our local economy.
